

Final five photos

For my photos I'm choosing to work on photos of urban buildings, this one is a beautiful river behind bars of a bridge, I hope the allusion is clear

This one is of mannequins in expensive clothing, I want to Photoshop this into an environment of squalor

This is a washed out sign which used to read 'comics' this makes a point about urban deprivation.

This's an old bank window with peoples bikes left outside it, I'm planning to use these bikes for a further point about valuable possessions being left behind.

This is the final image I took of the dirty, graph covered subway which divides Canterbury, I'm using this as the main reference for my final image, this will be the main piece the rest uses elements from

